GRAND JURY PASSES PRAISES AND COMPLAINTS TO COUNTY OFFICIALS

Lack of Economy Discovered in Various County Departments Causes Criticisms of Investigators

In a lengthy report that hits in turn first one and then another of the county officers, praising a few and criticizing many, the findings of the Grand Jury of San Mateo county were this week handed to the judge of the county. In their opening paragraph they say, "We find that economy is practically unknown among the distributors of county funds."

The San Mateo High School was especially hard hit by the report, as it is claimed that the salaries of teachers in that institution were far ahead of teachers in the other high schools of the county. What the jury termed the fads and fancies of this high school were also severely rapped.

While dealing with the schools of the county, the conduct of Pete Gouzene while school trustee of Colma was referred to the district attorney by the Grand Jury. It appears that Gouzene caused warrants to be drawn in the name of C. O. Vance for labor and material. Vance got his compensation from these according to the report, and the greater part of the money it is alleged went to Gouzene.

The poor farm was found to be in as good condition as possible considering the age and type of the buildings used. The jury recommended, however, that electric lights be used to replace the oil lamps now in use, and also that a water line be laid in from the nearest Spring Valley main. The question of discontinuing farming the land was recommended for consideration, as the county had a yearly deficit from this practice.

The auditor's office was found to have more to do than the three persons now provided could attend to, and it was therefore recommended that the county appoint another assistant for this department. The same condition was found in the office of the superintendent of schools and a similiar recommendation was made for that office.

When the traffic officers of the county were investigated by the Grand Jury it was found that the cost of repairs and supplies were far too high and indicated carelessness in handling the machines used. It was recommended that the traffic squad be placed under the supervision of a head officer who would be responsible for the enforcement of the traffic laws in the county and that "if under this system at the end of the fiscal year, this department does not appear on a self supporting basis that the traffic department be discontinued.

The detention and juvenile home was inspected by the lady members of the Grand Jury and found to be highly satisfactory. The jail was also found to be in fine shape and well kept.

In the jury's consideration of the Assessor's office a very pertinent paragraph appears, "We found that what was needed was not increased values, or higher taxes, but decreased expenditures," in the various county departments. The proportionment of taxes was investigated and found to be equitable.

The Social Service Commission was investigated and the following recommendations made, "That if a party owns property but is unable to earn a livelihood through sickness or physical disability and receives public aid, that the money so advanced shall be consdered as a loan and that at the owner's death the property or as much of it as may be necessary shall revert to the county.' Several who are receiving county aid were found to not be in need and it was recommended that such aid be discontinued.

It was found that the schools were not getting their supplies through the purchasing agent and that great savings could be effected if all supplies were purchased through him.

The roads were found to be in excellent condition and much credit is due each and every one of the supervisors for the work done in their respective districts." The libraries of the county were also inspected and found to be in good condition and minor recommendations made.

FULTON APPOINTED LOCAL POSTMASTER

On Thursday Jas. V. Swift gave up his position as postmaster and was succeeded by A. L. Fulton. Mr. Swift has had charge of the local postoffice for the past seven years and has given general satisfaction by his courteous ways and considerate treatment of all the patrons of the office. He still had eight months of his term to serve, but asked to be released as he was anxious to take a rest before entering other work.

Mr. Fulton has been a resident of Redwood City for the past thirty years and has the respect and esteem of every one in town. He has had extensive business trainfng and will without dobut give genral satisfaction. He had the backing of the Republican County Committee and a number of local republicans. He was notified early this week by Representative Arthur M. Free that the appointment had been ratified and was to take over the office on the 1st. of February.

Ernest E. Howard is in town to start engineering work on the Dumbarton bridge. Surveys have been made and the actual construction will start as soon as a franchise is granted.

POPULAR TEACHER BECOMES BRIDE

In one of the most beautiful weddings of the season, Miss Janet Furguson, last Wednesday became the bride of Leonard F. Boyce of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lila Kirkpatrick in the same room in which the bride's mother was married. The room was artistically decorated with flowers and palms for the occasion.

Miss Furguson has been a teacher of domestic science in the San Mateo High School for several years and during that time has made her home in Redwood City with her aunt, Mrs. Kirkpatrick. She is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is the son of Mrs. Frank Boyce of Sioux Falls and is president of the Sioux Falls Construction Company.

The following guests were present from out of town:

Mr. and Mrs. Sam T. Ferguson of Long Beach, parents of the bride; Kenneth Ferguson of Minneapolis, the bride's brother; Mrs. Frank Boyce and Miss Jessie Boyce of Sioux Falls, mother and sister of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frisbie of Long Beach and Mrs. Charles Woodruff of Holly wood, cousins of the bridgeroom; Rev. and Mrs. Frank Brush of Berkeley.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank S. Brush of Berkeley. Miss Jessie Boyce of Sioux Falls and Mr. Kenneth Furguson of Minneapolis acted as atendants to the bride and groom. After the ceremony the young couple started on a trip to the southern part of the state and the Grand Canyon.

GRIMMENSTEIN WORKING ON TWO LARGE JOBS

A. W. Grimmenstein, Redwood City's popular electrician, has a crew of men wiring the new home of Dr. Conrad Weil of White Oaks and the modern garage and servants' quarters for Dr. Sommers of Woodside. Both jobs are large deals and require hundreds of feet of conduit to carry the wires underground to the buildings.

PIGEON POINT LIGHT

By Catherine Bentley, '26
Pescadero Union High School

Down on the shore—the dull clouds drifting;
There where the sea and the land unite;
Above the surf's eternal lifting,
Stands the light-house, tall and white.

Poised far out on the ragged rocks,
Reaching toward a sapphire sea,
Circled about by listless flocks
Of sea-gulls, soaring fitfully.

When long-drawn labors at even rest
And night-shades are a-falling,
And never a moon creeps over the crests
Of hills where winds are calling.

'Tis then this tower with its robe of white
Flings flashing rays far out to sea,
Piercing night's shield with saber light,
To guide great ships home safely.

Years and years this tower has stood
By the sea with its constant moaning,
Shedding a halo of golden light
On ships that pass in the gloaming.

Mrs. A. A. Marsal and daughter, DeLone, of Reno, Nevada, were arrivals in Redwood City to join Mr. Marsal, who has been here for some few weeks. The Marsals will spend the remainder of the winter in Redwood City and San Diego.

NEWSY NOTES OF LOCAL INTEREST

W. A. Crowell left Wednesday for Los Angeles to spend a week with his daughter, Mrs. Lionel DeYoung.

Sam Crozier, well known resident of this city, narrowly escaped serious injuries on the State highway opposite Tanfoan on Wednesday night when his automobile was almost demolished in a collison with a car driven by a San Francisco youth. No one was injured, but both cars were badly wrecked.

Sheriff H. W. Lampkin returned Thursday from Sacramento where he had been attending the convention of sheriffs of California. A number of topics of interest to the peace officers were discussed at their three days' meeting and Mr. Lampkin derived much benefit from his attendance.

Oscar Oleson was a visitor in town last Tuesday from the University of California.

Miss Henrietta McKay, who is soon to become the bride of Raymond Mitchell of this city, was the honor guest at a jolly surprise party held at the home of the Misses Pearl and Ruby George, Thursday evening.. The event ostensibily a birthday party, turned out to be a linen shower for the bride-elect, and many beautiful gifts were received by her. Those who were present to wish Miss McKay happiness and prosperity were Mesdames Ray Stewart, Frank Roza, Frank Nolan, Herbert Clattenberg, Alvin Brown, Misses Annie McKay, Martha McKay, Annie Bullivant, Marion Bullivant, Charlotte Bullivant, Georgia Porter, Ruby George, and Pearl George.

The juniors of Sequoia are giving a dance tonight in the Foresters hall They have secured James' orchestra and promise a good time to all who atend.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Chubbock motored to Kings City Sunday and remained over the week end. On Sunday they visited Paso Robles and returned home Monday.

Mrs. Belle Wentworth of the Oakland School Department was in Redwood City last Sunday visiting her sisters, the Misses Alice and Kittie Crowe.

A. W. Grimmenstein, the electrical contractor, has just completed installing a large Wagner motor in the Times-Gazette press room for driving the new press in the office.

Cy Young is enjoying a visit from his mother who arrived from her home in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Mrs. Young is 82 years of age and enjoys traveling. She spent some time here four years ago.

Miss Mary Murray came from Sebastopol, where she teaches music in the high school, to play at the funeral of James Van Court, her first instructor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stevens left Thursday for Lodi, where Mr. Stevens will take charge of the Congregational church. No successor to the pastorate here has been appointed yet.

The Woodcraft card party mentioned n the Gazette last week will be held n the I. O. O. F. hall Thursday, February 15. There wil be many prizes and a good time is assured to all who attend.

Deputy County Auditor Ed. Stack had a fine time with twenty-five friends last Saturday afternoon and Sunday at Truckee. The party enjoyed all kinds of winter sports and Ed became a keen artist at drawing snow balls.

TIMES-GAZETTE INSTALLS NEW PRESS

When the Times-Gazette installed a Hoe press back in the seventies it was as good a press as could be bought at that time and did the work as well as any press in the state. But presses have improved since then and so we found ourselves with a press that did not do as good work as possible, and accordingly, this week we installed in our press room a modern Campbell press, one capable of turning out excellent color work as well as good newspaper work. It is our earnest desire to give our subscribers the best we are able and with our new equipment we will strive to give a better paper than ever before. We have faith in our town and feel that investments here are secure and that the people of Redwood City appreciate our efforts.

PESCADERO PEBBLES

A very successful whist party was staged for the benefit of the Pescadero Community Center on Thursday night last. Mrs. Frank Williamson and Mrs. Woodham exemplified marked ability in their conception and management of the entire affair. Besides the distribution of a number of singularly beautiful prizes to the more skillful players there was an engaging entertainment, a delicious supper and several hours of delightful dancing to fill out a rounded evening of real pleasure. Miss Schroeder, a member of the Pescadero Union High School faculty rendered several violin solos in a manner that displayed a mastery of technique and great powers of expression.

"Tumble Inn," the lovely Pescadero Creek summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Wideman, was the scene of the most elaborate social event of the present winter season, in the form of a surprise towel shower, organized by the numerous friends of Mrs. Wideman, a beautiful bide of recent months.

Mrs. Wideman proved an extraordinarily charming hostess on the instant of the surprise occasion; and her hospitality was easily equal to the unexpectedness of of the delightful affair.

The club house of "Tumble Inn" with its perennially gorgeous setting was the place of the gathering, where whist, piano selections by Mrs. H. Steinberg and supper were enjoyed.

Those who graced the affair with their presence were: Mesdames Chris Wideman, Jose Mesquite, P. Paterson, M. Mattei, Frank Williamson, Edw. Moore, Edwin Williman, Geo. Greenwood, H. Steinberg, W. M. Rainey, M. E. Rodgers, C. V. Thompson, Gerald Edline, Joe Francis, A. Woodhams, the Misses Effie Jackson and Margaruite Schroeder and Master Earl Williamson, "Baby" Margaret Williman and "Jackie" Rodgers.

Mr. Bettencourt and Mr. Horace Nelson, Halfmoon Bay and Pescadero bankers were in town Tuesday looking after their intersts here. Both expessed themselves as being extremely enthusiastic over the wonderful development of their financial institution that they are fostering in this section. Both these men, along with the bank's president, Mr. J. C. Williamson, are men of long financial experience behind them, and their interest in this part of the world represents the happiest kind of prophecy in the world.

Paul Small, a junior from the Oakland High School, has entered the Pescadero Union High School, bringing the total enrollment of the latter up to sixteen pupils. Paul plans on matriculating in the University of California upon graduating from high school here. He brings with him a world of enthusiasm for high school studies and student body activities. Paul was a member of the star Oakland Hi basket ball team and is stirring a great deal of interest for that sport among the boys in Pescadero.

Clarence Frey is back in school after a brief illness of a few days. Clarence is making a splendid record for himself in every phase of his school life. Comments from Half Moon Bay, after a game our boys staged there were to the effect that Clarence ranked high among the goal-guards that have displayed their stuff before the Half Moon Bay folks.

Among other things a camera and hiking club to be known, however, under some more original name is being organized at the high school. One of the purposes of the club is to provide the archives of the school with a pictorial history of the Pescadero Union High School.

A wonderful deer's head was made a gift of the high school by its student body president, Harry McCormick. Henry bagged the big boy during the last hunting season, bringing him in as one of the finest trophies in this locality for years and years. Henry needs no recommendation to the world in any respect. He represents a mountain of assurance for the right thing in any direction. He is a distinctly Pescadero High School product whose impress is bound to be felt as time goes on.

A few more days of the kind we are having lately and Pescadero will be noted for an ice-skating resort. The prospect of seeing the youngsters skating up to the head waters of the Pescadero creek on the toboggan is by no means beyond the realm of possibility. Hail fell here Sunday. Later in the week snow approached within a few miles of town, lying in full view on the nearby hills, putting a crimpy texture to the atmosphere and laying a heavy white frost over the fields and window panes, the latter in fantastic arabesques, or whatever you want to call 'm.

LIQUOR CONFISCATED IN REDWOOD RAID

Last Sunday proved an unlucky day for the Redwood City bootlegers and also showed that our police force is not merely ornamental when the strong arm of the law took the liquor problem of Redwood City firmly in hand and arrested a number of infringers of the national prohibition act.

Chief of Police Collins and Officer Edward McAuliffe raided the Fly Trap and the grocery store of Steve Monteverde at Five Points, and the Rainbow Inn on the Highway. At these places Joseph Garofoli, Steve Monteverde, Antone Monteverde, Charles Gonzales, Charles Benozzi and Charles Constantino, G. Deluchi, and R. Persello were arrested. Albert Caruso was also arrested Sunday night for selling liquor.

Antone Monteverde was afterward released as it was found that he was not the owner of the liquor found at the store, but his uncle was fined $300 each on two charges. Joseph Garofoli, proprietor of the Fly Trap Inn, was fined $250 and Caruso paid a fine of $150 and was warned by City Attorney Mansfield that if he was caught again he would be given the limit for such cases.

FLYING SQUADRON HERE NEXT WEEK

You are interested in the subject of taxes; every owner or prospective owner of property is.

No doubt you have asked yourself many times why taxes should be so high. You have heard various reasons assigned and perchance have a notion all your own on the subject. It may be only a notion, however; it may be that you have not been able to satisfy yourself that your theory is the correct one.

Frank S. Regan says taxes should be reduced at least one third and proves with his crayon right before you eyes that they can be. No guess work with him—he knows. Investigation of the cause of high taxes has been his business for years; he has found a remedy for them.

Mr. Regan is not only a lawyer and tax expert, but a cartoonist of national reputation and a lyceum lecturer and chalk talker of many years' standing. He is a member of the first division of the Flying Squadron and will deliver two addresses—one at 3 and the other at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, February 7th, in the First Congregational church.

Do not fail to hear him.

Other speakers will be heard on Thursday and Friday afternoon and evening. These speakers are all "top-notchers" and comprise a squadron which is covering the United States. The speakers are making only the larger cities, educational centers and strategic points. Redwood City is fortunate to be numbered among those cities to be visited by this body of speakers of such ability and worth.

The new Congregational Church will seat 500 people and every seat should be occupied. No admission fee. Everybody is invited.

WHIST PARTY TUESDAY EVENING AT RECTORY

The members of the Parish Choir of Mount Carmel will entertain their friends at a whist party to be given in the spacious parlors of the rectory, Tuesday evening, February 6th.

This is the first social event of the year under the auspices of the Choir and the members are doing everything to insure its success. Novel, and attractive souvenirs will be distributed.

The following ladies are in charge of the party: Miss Lottie Bullivant, Mrs. W. T. Chubbuck, Miss M. Cussen, Miss Lorraine Dickey, Miss Angelina Faso, Mrs. J. R. Fox, Miss Grace O'Sullivan, Mrs. J. P. Weller, and Mrs. Harry Zimmerman.

Mr. John E. Layng will conduct the game.

AMERICAN LEGION GETS GYMNASIUM

Last Thursday evening it was announced by the committee of Post 105 of the American Legion that they had secured the old gymnasium building. This will be welcome news to all as it means that the old building will be for the use of the young folks and the boy scouts of the town. Extensive repairs are necessary and new equipment will have to be bought, but the Legion boys will put it over in their usual style.

Commander Jones congratulated the committee and reminded the boys in general of what a lot of responsibility was ahead of them. All seemed anxious to grasp the opportunity to take a hand in the welfare of the local boys and girls and arrangements will be made to handle every one that applies for the gymnasium in any fom of athletic endeavor.

Bishop Parsons will administer the Apostolic Rite of the laying on of hands in St. Peter's church at the 11 o'clock service nert Sunday, Feb. 4th, and in the Church of the Good Shepherd Belmont at 3 o'clock. Public cordially invited.

MRS. MARY CLOUD, WELL BELOVED CHRISTIAN WOMAN, PASSES AWAY

Mother of County Superintendent of Schools Dies at Her Home in this City; Was Pioneer Resident of Redwood City

When the Angel of Death stopped in its flight, and, pausing for a moment, laid its cooling fingers upon the brow of Mrs. Mary A. Cloud, there passed from our midst one loved and revered by both the young and the old of the community. A devout Christian and a willing helper, her going out from among us will leave a void which will be hard, indeed, to fill.

Mrs. Cloud, when a child of five, with her father, Wesley A. Wilsey, and mother and brothers crossed the plains by wagon train and lived for a time in what is now the Mission District of San Francisco, later moving to the old Wilsey ranch on the summit of the hills between San Mateo and Halfmoon Bay.

In 1867 she became the wife of Joseph J. Cloud, who was for many years the county surveyor of this county. Five children were born to them, three of whom, Joseph J., Nellie and Blossom, preceded her in death, and two, Charles M. of Aberdeen, Washington, and Roy W. of this city, who remain to grieve the loss of their dear mother.

The Clouds made their home in Redwood City where their influence was soon felt and which was continued even after death has taken some of them from us. Mrs. Cloud was an active member of the Congregational Church here, and was one of the founders of the Christian Endeavor Society, where her perfect understanding and sympathy with the young people made those with whom she worked love her and strive to do God's will through her.

The Rev. C. H. Stevens told of the worth of Mrs. Cloud at her funeral held Tuesday afternoon from the church, where as a loving tribute to her memory, masses of flowers filled the pulpit and her many, many friends gathered to hear the last words spoken before she was taken to Cypress Lawn cemetery and gently laid away in the bosom of Old Mother Earth. The pall bearers who were old friends of the deceased were D. E. O'Keefe, D. W. Williams, Henry Steinberger, C. M. Doxsee, Donald MacKenzie, and T. C. Rice.

The declining years of Mrs. Cloud's life were made extremely happy by the tender devotion and solitticous care of her son, Roy, whose constant thought and every endeavor was for his mother's happiness. He administered to her every want, satisfying her every whim and with words of comfort and cheer brought pleasure and satisfaction to her when the evening of life had come. Though very busy with the duties and cares of his office as superintendent of schools of the county, Mr. Cloud permitted no day to pass without visiting his mother and to spend a few happy moments with her, bringing sunshine and cheer to the devoted parent. Mr. Cloud believes, as did the statesman of old that all that he was and all that he had he owed to his angel mother. Mr. Cloud acknowledges this debt by the filial affection, love and devotion shown for his kind and tender mother.

SENATOR SHORTRIDGE SENDS SEEDS

The Times-Gazette has received, throug the kindness of Senator Shortridge, a number of packages of choice vegetable seeds. The seeds sent this year include beans, beets, lettuce, onions, and tomatoes, and they are all of excellent varieties. These seeds are sent from Washington for the purpose of introducing new and valuable varieties of plants into the state. While they last these seeds will be distributed to any one wishing to try them. Only one package will be given to a person as the supply is limited. Those who desire seeds should come early.

FORMER SEQUOIA ATHLETE HONORED

Three Stanford swimmers have been named on the All-American Swimming team by Frank Sullivan, who picks them for Spalding's swimming book. Dudley DeGroot, Sequoia graduate and captain of this year's varsity football team, is named as the champion backstroke swimmer. He was for a time champion breast-stroke swimmer of the Pacific Coast.

WOODSIDE CHIRPS

Samuel Pond is having built on his place a poultry house de luxe that for comfort, at least, would make a medieval castle feel like a cattle shed. The double floors, insulated walls, large windows, electric lights and furnace heat would make many a princess of the Middle Ages wish she were a chicken in such a poultry house.

How did they ever live on their stone-flagged floors covered with rushes and lighted by smoking torches whose flames blew hither and yon in the drafts from the unglazed windows?

King Harries, son of Lawrence Harries of San Francisco, gave a party to some of the lads of Woodside on Saturday, at the Harries place in celebration of the event of his tenth birthday. The afternoon was spent enjoyably, but the best sport of all was when the boys cooked their own meal of chops and toast and roasted potatoes over an open fire in the yard.

Louis Winkler of Redwood City, was born and raised in this Woodside valley and if you give him a chance he will tell you tales of the excellent hunting he used to get between here and the Spring Valley lakes. The years have passed pleasantly with him and he has not noted the flight of time or minded the changes that time has brought. He came out here on Sunday to renew his his youth and have another hunt. He brought his armory along and shells enough to supply with game the culinary department of the St. Francis Hotel. The spirit of Daniel Boone was revived in him. But after tramping the hills from dawn till dark, he returned with enough blackbirds to make a fair-sized pie. Verily, time bringeth many changes.

There is a very beautiful place, of near a hundred acres, on the road to the La Honda grade that I always think of as the Lane Place, but from its more recent owner, is more often referred to as the Ames Place. This property was sold a few months ago to L. D. Allen of San Francisco but has never been occupied by him. A few days ago it was resold to William Roth, head of the Matson Navigation Company. Mr. Roth was lessee of the Folger Place last summer, and knowing what he had fallen under the spell of the Woodside charm, we rather expected that he would find a home for himself in this valley. We are glad that this place has fallen into such good hands.

I wonder if we are going to be able to speak of or "snow-clad hills" with regularity hereafter. Just a year to a day of the snow fall of last year, we have been treated to another. On Monday morning the ridge was covered with snow and some scattering flakes fell in the valley. It was not so extensive or so enduring as the snow-fall of last year but it was enough to give us a thrill and a taste, at least, of real winter. The glistening reflection of the rays of the rising sun from the snow covered redwoods made some of the California born children believe that the whole ridge had been covered with tinsel, preparatory for another Christmas tree.

Kathleen Gish entertained her school girl friends at a party in honor of her eleventh birthday.

Have you ever noticed the lacy patterns made by the the bare treetops in outline against the sky? No product of the looms of Flanders or the deft fingers of the Swiss lace-makers could be so delicate or varied The twigs of the valley oak and the maple are in heavier pattern as if made with heavier thread but the twigs of the black oak and the elm make a pattern as fine and delicate as you find in the most expensive Venetian lace. The effect is about gone now for the new buds are swelling and they detract from the airy lightness of the bare boughs.

Bill Byrnes has a new Buick Sedan. How the demands of an advancing civilization do grapple one.

OXSEE ACCEPTS SCHOOL TRUSTEESHIP

Chase Littlejohn, who has been a trustee of the local grammar school district for the past twenty-one years resigned this week. Mr. Littlejohn has been greatly interested in the schools and gave his time freely to the cause of education. He felt, however, that he could no longer give the required time to the position, hence his resignation. At the request of the other trustees, County Superintendent, Roy W Cloud, has appointed Mr. C. M. Doxsee to fill the position. Mr. Cloud could not have made a more popular appointment.

FIRE ON ROOSEVELT AVENUE

The fire department was called out at eleven o'clock yesterday by call from box 34. The fire was said to be in the Perkin's place on Roosevelt avenue, and caused by an electric heater which had been used when the family had gone to the city an hour before. The efforts of the firemen prevented a serious damage.

MEN'S SOCIETY REORGANIZED AT MOUNT CARMEL CHURCH

At a meeting recently held, the Men's Council of Mount Carmel Church was reorganized, and plans were made for the future of the society. The first of the several proposed activities was the assuming responsibility for the fitting up of comfortable and commodious club rooms. The garage of the former Hanson estate, at the corner of East Brewster and Warren streets was secured for this purpose and is being transformed into the kind of building desired.

A "house-warming" in the form of a musical promenade and whist game, to be followed by a supper, has been arranged for the evening of Tuesday, February 13th, to which the friends of the Council members are invited.

MISS CLUTE RESIGNS AS SCHOOL NURSE

Miss Cora Clute who for the last two years has been school nurse in the schools of Redwood City, resigned this week to accept a position as head nurse in the Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo. During her time of service Miss Clute has endeared herself to all by her gentle ways and kind administrations to the sick, and she will be missed by the many children to whom she has devoted her energies. The position of chief nurse of the large hospital in San Mateo is made vacant by the resignation of Miss Kurtz of that place and is a substantial raise to Miss Clute. She has the best wishes of the entire community in her new undertaking.

BELMONT POSTMISTRESS APPOINTED

Mrs. Edna J. McGowan has received her commission as postmistress of the Belmont postoffice, a position held for the past eight years by her husband, R. H. McGowan. There was a very bitter contest for the office. An examination was called by the depatment a year ago. The successful candidates were, Mrs McGowan and C. J. Messner. Several others took the examination but failed. Mr. Messner had the backing of the county republican committee and other influences, but Mrs Mc Gowan was backed by powerful friends at Belmont and won the approval of Congressman Free.

ADDITIONAL WOODSIDE NEWS

Mrs. Clara B. Hooper, whose illness has kept her from her home here for some months, has returned. It is hoped that her health will permit her to remain in this place which she loves better than any other.

Dr. J. L. Ross is having a good part of his orchard here planted over to vines. I have not inquire as to the variety.

IN MEMORIUM

Roy W .Cloud, superintendent of schools of San Mateo County, has the sympathy of every one in the bereavement of his devoted mother, who passed away in Redwood City last Friday at a ripe old age. Mrs. Cloud was a good, Christian woman, whose acts of kindness and benefactions gained for her the affection and admiration of all who knew her. The greater portion of her long life was spent in San Mateo County. She loved the hills and vales of the county which she saw transformed from a wilderness to countless happy homes, fragrant with the perfume of blooms and blossoms of matchless gardens. She saw the old stage coach give way to the steam railroad, the trail to the winding boulevard, and the hut to the mansion. Mrs. Cloud saw all these changes for she was a pioneer. Full of honors and years and respected by a wide circle of friends, she passed out, on and over the Great Divide to her eternal rest. The memory of this good woman will live forever enshrined in the hearts of her many friends and relatives.

A BUSINESS PROBLEM

Secretary of State Hughes is unquestionably right in his assertion that the adjustment of the reparations controversy should be made by business men and not by politicians. It is an economic and not a political matter. If the governments concerned send their political representatives to a conference the outcome will be as unsatisfactory as the present situation, even though it may result in changes in the amounts of reparation obligations. What the world wants to know is what can and should be paid, and this cannot be settled by political maneuvering. The world will have confidence in an adjustment arrived at by business men from all over the world viewing the matter from an economic and not from a political standpoint. Mr. Hughes has made still more clear the wisdom of the government of the United States in keeping out of the reparation muddle.

BACK FOR MORE CHIPS

Some years ago a poor Greek immigrant came to this country. He amassed a fortune of $500,000 returned to the Near East and invested it in Smyrna. Now he is again a poor man, and back in the United States to start once more. If fortune favors him he will do well to remain here, become an American citizen, and enjoy the advantages of the country that has rewarded him so generously. Immgirants who come to the United States solely to make some money, and then return home to spend it, have no complaint if they meet adversity. Every immigrant who epects to make his fortune in America owes it to the country to become an American citizen and do what he can to support and protect the American government.

A CENTURY OF MONROE DOCTRINE

The Senate has passed a bill authorizing the coinage of special 50-cent pieces to commemorate the one-hundredth anniversary of the Monroe Doctrine. It is a move in the right direction, and enough of the coins ought to be put into circulation to make them familiar to everyone. The discussion they would arouse would be an instructive reminder of that great feature of our foreign policy.

BRITISH DEBT REFUND

It is predicted that the British debt to the United States will be completely refunded within a month of the beginning of the negotiations between the British representatives and the American Debt Commission. Ambassador Harvey declares his complete conviction that Great Britain will pay her debt to this country in full. Both statements are encouraging, but no different from what any intelligent American has expected from the British Empire. There is no nation in the world that could afford less to have its international credit ruined. What is to become of the credit of the other allied countries it is for them to determine, but they would do well to guide themselves according to the standard set by Great Britain.

—o—o—o—o—

THE FOUNDATION OF DEMOCRACY

Few who are not directly connected with the public school system of the United States fully realize the great and benificent influence of our school system upon our democracy. When our forefathers founded this country, they, in their inspired wisdom, founded the public school as an essential to a free and democratic state. And today, when the few struggling states on the eastern boarder of a great uncivilized continent have grown into one of the greatest and most advanced of civilized, self-governing world powers, we find the same need which prompted the earliest settlers to found institutions where the young might be educated together.

Book education is important, but not the most important function of the public school. It is important that a child should learn to read, but vastly more important that he should learn to know and associate with children of other races, other classes and other creeds. The public school offers an opportunity of a broadening and all comprehensive knowledge of humanity that no school, where all the children are of the same class of society, or of the same faith or of the same race can give. It is truly the melting pot of the nation.

The intermingling of different grades of society in the public school during the formative period of life does more to prevent social unrest than much profound philosophy. The public school is the corner stone of democracy. Long may it flourish.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS INSTALLS OFFICERS

Once more the impressive installation ceremonies of the Woman's Relief Corps were witnessed by a large gathering of friends on Monday evening in I. O. O. F. hall, when Past National President, Geraldine E. Frisbie, in a beautiful and competent manner installed the officers of General Geo. S. Evans Corps, No. 36. Past Department President, Minnie Crissler of Nevada, was also present, and during the evening gave an isteresting talk on the work done by her home corps.

Much praise was given to Conductor Mary E. Winter for the perfect manner in which she performed the duties of her office. President Marie Lipp presented Mrs. Frisbe with a beautiful basket of flowers. Mrs. Frisbie then presented Mrs. Lipp with a beautiful Past President's pin.

The following program was greatly enjoyed: Song by Mrs. Georgette Dearborn; reading, "Roll Call," by Mrs. Catherine Haw; Violin Solo, Inez Jamison; "Silver Threads among the Gold," Fancy Dancing, Lorraine Brennan; song, Mrs. Ida Zimmerman, "Long, Long Trail," encore, "On the Road to Home Sweet Home;" recitation, Helma Larson, "Old Glory;" song, "Tenting Tonight by audience. They all then marched to the banquet hall and after partaking of delicious refreshments, arose and sang, "God be with You Till We Meet Again," which closed asother pleasant and happy event in the history of General Geo. S. Evans Relief Corps, No. 36.

The following officers were installed: President, Marie Lipp; Senior Vice, Helena Flynn; Junio Vice, Mammie Glennan; Chaplain, Anna Collins; Secretary, Martha George; Treasurer, Emma Winter; Conductor, Mary Winter; Guard Bertha Potts; Patriotic Instructor, Minnie Kincaid; Assistant Conductor, Mollie Rice; Assistant Guard, Augusta Geary; Press Correspondent; Auditor, Selma Locker; Musician, Dollie Jamieson; Color Bearers, No. 1, Nora Hahir, No. 2, Daisy Kreiss, No. 3, Inez Jamison, No. 4, Tessie Jones.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

Many of those who read these articles have probably heard the expression, "the devil itself was in the winds behind McCarthy's mare." Permit me to say right here that McCarthy's mare and the wind had nothing on us for the balance of that trip. If ever a man could and did make himself disagreeable during the five following days in which we remained aboard the sloop, it was "Coal Oil Tommy," and as a matter of fact he never returned to the normal condition of a human being even after we came back from what I must confess was the most disagreeable duck hunting expedition I ever had the honor or misfortune to participate in. Had it not been for George Uhle I would have felt like taking my duck boat and becoming a deserter. Try as we did in every conceivable way to please the captain it was a useless expenditure of good nature and the only time when George and myself really gathered any pleasure on the whole trip was when we were away in our duck boats sculling. It was certainly a relief for us both when we stepped on the wharf here again and realized that there was but memory left of that exepdition.

Tommy was so mad that, hungry as he must have been, he refused to eat any dinner. To think that his "yacht" had sprung a leak, and more especially so after we had advised him that such a thing was possible, put him in a frame of mind that could only be compared to that of the devil.

We made an examination of the damage as best we could and found that the water was not coming in so rapidly but what we could keep it down with the pump, but the prospect of standing watch during the night was anything but an agreeable one.

A consultation was held as to the best thing to do under the circumstances and it was decided as the tide was still coming in to run up into the landing creek, where we knew there was a hard bottom and when the tide went out make a survey of just what could be done. The captain was perfectly satisfied with this plan as he had no more desire to wake up in the night and find the cabin afloat that we had. So we polled and rowed the sloop along until we had reached a good locality in a narrow reach of the smaller creek put out the anchor and ran a line ashore to hold her so she would heel over when the tide dropped out.

George and I both wished to go sculling the next morning and did not desire to lose any more sleep than possible. Tommy was now willing to listen to reason. In fact he had to if he ever wished to have his "yacht" again tied up at the old Chamberlain wharf. In case the leak could not be fixed with the tools and materials we had on hand, I agreed to walk up to a friend's house on the creek, get a horse and cart and come to Redwood City for whatever we would require.

We were tired and hungry and relished the meal George had prepared, but Captain Wilson could not be induced to partake of our hospitality. We left a roasted teal in the oven for him and later on had the satisfaction of knowing that Tommy had partaken of the duck while we were busy on the bank fixing our duck boats.

Just about dark the tide had dropped out sufficiently to enable us to make an examination of the bottom of the boat, and we found that with some oakum, tar and cement we could again make the old craft seaworthy. So it was agreed that we should go hunting in the morning and that afternoon I would go to town for the materials which were not aboard. We kept the water pretty well out of her during the night by each taking a hand at the pump and while George and myself did not get all the sleep we wished we were both up before daybreak the next morning and after a hasty breakfast we jumped into the duck boats and were off.

We had agreed that George should take the east fork of the creek and I was to go up the west branch. In coming down the bay we had not seen many ducks and felt anything but sanguine about results. The west branch of the creek headed up toward the Seale Ranch below Mayfield and on its headwaters I knew of an old artesian well that was still flowing which had been in years past a good place for mallards. Not a bird did I see until reaching the little creek which led up to the well. Here a ditch ran up under the bold bank where the fresh water from the well ran down. On the bank stood quite a patch of the fresh water tulles or cat-tails. As I turned a short corner in the gutter three mallards jumped from underneath the overhanging bank and I killed two as they rose squarely before me. Thinking it would be a good place to wait as day was breaking with a raising tide I concealed my boat and fixed up a seat in the tulles. Before I had hardly got settled two more drakes came sneaking in and lit in the ditch in front of me. They must have expected more for they no sooner struck the water than they commenced quacking for the company which was not there. It was so easy that it seemed a pity to kill them, but a duck hunter does not stop long to admire feathered beauty and I shot one on the water and the other as he rose. For two hours nothing more showed up and I became restless and scolled down the ditch toward the east fork. Seeing nothing I returned in a half hour and found two more swimming around as if they owned that little oasis. Dropping down quickly I easily sculled them and made it six. Mallards were not plentiful and I was more than satisfied.

About noon George came along with reports of but few ducks. He had killed a speckled breasted brandt and one teal. After waiting a half hour we sculled slowly back to the sloop, where we found Tommy busy at the pump. After lunch I started for Redwood, was fortunate in securing a vehicle and returned that eveing with the necessary articles to patch up the sloop. We all pitched in and made a good job on the leaky seam and when the tide came in again we found that our efforts had not been in vain. Tommy's "yacht" was sound once more and he did condescend to eat with us and for the time being became half way sociable.

The next morning we were off again. I went the same route and George took the east branch, but with hardly better results. Mallards seemed to come within range of my shotgun when no other ducks would. I secured four that morning, and three the next, while George was busy with a flock of teal from w he secured ten.

It was getting toward the end of the week, so we decided to start home the next morning. Our departure from the San Francisco was about as pleasant as had been our entrance. The well was soon ed, the sloop found almost dry, the high tide we got away, or pa we started. Tommy would have mainsail up, although there was wind. I was in the cabin and started the fire preparatory to ing some coffee. George was on with Tommy and I could hear captain giving orders how to hoist mainsail and then to lower it. stove was not working very well ing the cabin with smoke and I fussing with the damper I heard George call out to me, ping outside, I soon realized trouble. The mainsail had lowered right on top of the straight stove pipe and a hole been burned in the sail about size of an ordinary hat. Talk a fireworks, blue streaks of light and all that. Tommy was the bination complete. When he covered the burnt sail he was fr I had not touched a rope of sa I was blamed for the whole tro He said I should have been on when he was sailing. I lan outright and that made him to speak of sailing with o breath of wind was to me the We had not moved twenty feet where we pulled up the anchor

I put out the smouldering sa helped them along with the How I did long for home. A breeze came up as we reache bay, and we started to make headway.

Every time George and I look at the mainsail we would to laugh, that is if the captai his head turned. By three o we were off Green Point again we headed in across the flats to Point creek. George wished t away from Tommy, so he went ing and secured a few teal w got a crack at some speckled br brandt and killed one. We anc in First slough that night an next morning tied up at th wharf, where our troubles had menced.

Before leaving the sloop, and I hoisted an old broom masthead, which Tommy did n cover for a couple of days. he did so you can guess the As a matter of fact, he never to me again and I do not th did to George.

One evening several weeks ward, I met Frank Thurston street and he asked me if I that Tommy was quite sick.

I replied, "No," and ask there was anything I could him.

"I am going for Dr. Ross," Thurston, "you go over to the and start the fire."

Hurrying along I found th were all too late. Tommy no fire; the death rattle was sounding his knell and whe medical gentleman arrived. Wilson, 'Coal Oil Tommy,' had ed on, had died as he had lived and almost friendless while th light shadows, stole up the and enshrouded the humble tation of death that he had pleased to call his home.

Our Standing Army

A standng army of 125,000 men and 12,000 officers is provided for the coming fiscal year, in the Army Appropriation bill reported to the House last week. That is the same standing army that Congress authorized for this year. The bill would appropriate nearly 315 million dollars, sixteen million more last year.

THE HARDSHIPS OF OLD AGE

By A. Epstein, formerly director Pennsylvania Old Age Pension Commission; author, Facing Old Age.

Due to the progress made by medical science, the average length of man's life has been increasing. More and more people will now complete the journey to ripe old age. From 1910 to 1921, the average period of life, in the United States, was increased by four years.

This should be exhilarating news to everybody. From each joy, however, many aged workers are shut out. To them the advance in longevity brings uneasiness and anxiety. For it means only a prolongation of their misery from the poverty which too often overtakes old age.

The problem of the support of the old has been always with mankind. Each period has dealt with it in its own way. In primitive tribes, aged individuals were starved or were otherwise put to death. Later, when it was observed that knowledge is power, and that memories of the elders were the chief treasury of experience and skill, the old man's authority was supreme. He was the head of the clan and was looked up to as the embodiment of wisdom. When everything was manufactured at home, the artisan or laborer continued to work as long as he could produce anything. In agricultural communities men and women are found still useful in their old age. And in business, professions, and public affairs, it is not rare to find men doing their best work at the age of sixty or seventy.

With the recording of knowledge in print and the increase of population—demanding an infinite supply of goods—an entirely new situation began confronting the aged laborer. Machinery was invented to turn out vast quantities of commodities—competing with hand labor to its disadvantage. Fatigue, produced by overspeeding, and the hazards and the strains characteristic of modern machinery, have shortened the period of effective service of industrial workers. Few persons can play any part in modern industry after they have passed three score years of age. At an age when workmen in agricultural pursuits are considered to be in their prime, the industrial laborer is found to have become worn-out and old Thousands of such worn-out aged workers find themselves without friends or relatives to help or care for them.

It is this economic senility—that is, the inability to remain in industry after a certain age has been attained—which constitutes our present problem of aged destitution. And each progressive step, each new invention, each new machine involves the replacement of the less efficient and eliminates further the necessity for skill. The old mechanic's experience is of less and less value. Industry to day demands only the young, the healthy ones, the adaptable, the supple of limb and the alert of mind. Few industrial workers may expect to continue at their accustomed work until the end of their days.

The problem of securing new employment is not an easy one for the aged wage-earner. The "old fogy" is welcomed neither in the shop nor in the counting-room. There are many industries that will not hire a laborer past the age of forty. The modern employer usually feels no responsibilities for his workers and if is not uncommon to find aged and decrepit toilers, who have with their brain and brawn helped in our social development, relegated to the industrial scrapheap as of no economic value. But, being merciful, we send our unfortunate aged to the poorhouse for food and shelter. But what kind of poorhouse? Who can describe the terror of the old man discharged from his job, and confronted with the prospect of having to end his days in the poorhouse?

To remove this terror from the minds and hearts of the aged and those of middle age, a system of Old Age Pensions should be established without delay.

Immigration Figures

More than three-fifths of the total number of immigrants who will be allowed to enter the United States during the current fiscal year, entered this country during the first six months. The fiscal year ends June 30. The quotas of the following countries are already filled: Armenia, Belgium, Greece, Italy, Luxemburg, Portugal, Lithuania, Spain, Pelestine, Syria, Turkey, Africa and Australia. The number of foreigners entering this country from July 1 to December 31 was 215,658.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

The big fire here on the night of January 18th which resulted in the total destruction of one of our old and revered land marks, the old William Kreger home, at the corner of Holly and Elm streets, has caused the people of San Carlos to wake up to the fact that we are practically without fire protection, when it comes to a real emergency. At this first fire experienced in San Carlos, where a home was at stake the present water system proved entirely inadequate, in fact it was worse than none at all, as otherwise we wouldn't have depended upon it, and the Redwood City Fire department would have tried to use their chemical engines to the best advantage and the people of San Carlos could have helped some by forming a bucket brigade.

Had we known that our water supply was only sufficient for domestic purposes and the maintainance of our beautiful garden homes, we would have seen to it, that a fire district was organized and put in operation long before this and a plant established which would be equal to any emergency.

This first misfortune of its kind in our little city has served to prove that it won't do to depend upon "George" or the other fellow to take care of these important matters which we should have attended to ourselves. We would do well to copy after the good old Missourians, in affairs which so vitally affect us, both individually and collectively.

We will appreciate that the people who have bought homes here within the past ten or twelve years, thought they were paying for and buying adequate fire protection along with water for baths and irrigation for their garden homes.

It is now up to us to profit by the great misfortune of the present owners of this fine old home, and the two good families who were living in it as tenants, who lost everything they had, to the extent of six or eight thousand dollars, barely escaping with their lives and those of their children.

We must immediately set about the task of organizing a fire district, such as Menlo Park and other unincorporated communities, have had for many years, whereby we will all be taxed on an equitable basis and enjoy the same measure of security.

It won't do to delay and quibble over the question, as to whether a part of us paid for this protection in an efficient water system and supply, along with the price our beautiful garden homes, and expect that the land company is going to voluntarily spend any more money in laying larger and more adequate mains to connect up with the fire hydrants which were put in by the old San Carlos Park Syndicate about twelve years ago. By such delay we will risk the loss of our homes and may find ourselves out in the cold some dark, rainy night with nothing more than a fig leaf for a covering in this modern Garden of Eden. In this condition our delightful landscape will afford us but small satisfaction. September Morn may be all right for some people, but I don't want any of it with my skinny propensities.

When the property was taken over on foreclosure by the present holders about five years ago, they doubtless were of the impression that the water mains were ample to give us the full advantage of the 100 lb pressure which is supplied by the Spring Valley Water plant, and were themselves ignorant of the inefficient system until the fire on the night of the 18th.

Every one should attend the mass meeting which some of our active citizens have called for the evening of Thursday, February 8th, at the San Carlos school house and help to see to it that a movement to give us ample fire protection is put on foot without further delay.

AN EXHIBITION OF INDIAN ARTS AND CRAFTS

Beginning Sunday, January 21, 1923, the Stanford Art Gallery opened an exhibition of work done by the Navajo and Hopi Indians.

Included in this exhibition are a collection of sketches and paintings showing the pisturesque Indian country and the Indians themselves. These pictures are the work of Theodore Wores, James Swinnerton and Pedro J. Lemos.

Interesting features of this display are the woven ceremonial plaques, done in a seemingly endless variety of well-planned designs. These, as well as the blankets, jewelry, and ceremonial dolls, are part of a unique collection belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Swinnerton. The jewelry represents some of the finest specimens of Indian craftsmanship.

The pottery shown was obtained by Mr. Lemos during his trip last summer through the Navajo country. In this group will be found the Rain God, an important deity in a land where much depends on the crops and rainfall. "A Rain God Maker" is well depicted in one of Mr. Lemos' sketches, showing an Indian potter busy at work, making the little images. The paintings by Mr. Wores, who is a recognized leader in Portraiture, show various types of Indian life, and are exceptionally well handled.

To some people, on first acquaintance, this primitive type of art may seem crude and lacking in the attributes necesary for beauty. A more careful study reveals a fine sense of composition, harmony, balance, rythm, color and everything necessary for good design.

The craftmanship of the designs in the weavings, carvings, and silver-smithing, is expresive of the Indian's joy in his work, which is the true condition necessary for an artistic production.

The exhibition will continue for one month. The gallery is open to the public daily, without charge, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Skyscraper for Sale!

The Equiable Life Isurance building in New York is offered for sale. The price asked is forty million dollars. It covers a block of ground and is thirty-eight stories high. It is the largest office building in New York, although the famous Woolworth building is higher. It is said to be the second largest office building in the world. The new General Motors building in Detroit is the largest of office buildings.

Both the highest and the lowest points of land are in Asia. The highest is the peak of Mt. Everest, in the Himalaya Mountains, 29,002 feet above sea level. The lowest is the Dead Sea, in Palestine, 1290 feet below sea level.

Permanently Removing Spots by the
F. Thomas Process

If spots come back after your clothes have been to the cleaners, cleaned by the "F. Thomas Process."

Spots that appear in clothing caused by grease, food stains, etc., quickly collect dust and dirt. They can be permanently removed by the "F. Thomas Process" without injury to the fabric.

The "F. Thomas Process" is a highly developed, scientific method of cleaning by which we obtain the perfect work for which this establishment is noted.

The cheap, "just as good" cleaner either washes your clothes in dirty gasoline, or scours his gasoline with strong sulphuric acid. It is dangerous to have your clothes cleaned in "acid" gasoline. It is economy in the long run to have your clothes they haven't been thoroughly cleaned.

Every drop of cleaning fluid that we use is carefully re-distilled in our plant. Special equipment that we have installed to properly handle this work represents an investment of thousands of dollars.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Roy W. Cloud, superintendent of schools of San Mateo county, members of the Sequoia High School faculty and teachers in the Ravenswood school were guests of honor at a reception given Friday evening at the school by the Runnymede Parent-Teacher Asociation. Residents of the Ravenswood school district were present in large numbers.

The rainfall for the season is 16.30 inches as against 14 inches at this time last year. The normal rainfall is 12 inches.

Two young men raced on skates from San Francisco to San Jose last Sunday, stopping here to change their skates, not moonshine. About twenty years ago Menlo Park was the third relay for the bicycle races from the same points. These contests drew large crowds. It is imagining too much to say that before long there will be airplane races from San Francisco to Los Angeles. If the machines would collide what would happen to those below? Of course when that time comes there will be a law regulating the traffic on air paths, air cops to see that the laws are observed. The traffic cops are up in the air now because the district attorney cannot find any law permitting them to draw their salaries, but when they come down they will be at sea to find out how they can get their hands into the county treasury. A good lawyer, however, might land them safely.

Recently in the Superior Court of San Francisco, the Key Route Company, successors to the Key Route, confessed judgment in the suit of Sarah Litchfield on a promissory note for $5,487. Mathew McCollough, a former Menlo boy, appeared as the attorney for the successful litigant. Mr. McCollough has a good practice gained by hard work and attention to duty.

Mrs. James Cunningham, an old resident of the Peninsula, passed away in New York this week after a brief illness. She left her attractive home at Atherton recently after the marriage of her youngest daughter. Before going to Atherton she resided in the palatial home at Woodside for a number of years. She was the widow of the late James Cunningham of the firm of Cunningham, Curtis & Welch, stationers of San Francisco. Mrs. Cunningham was a splendid woman, beloved and admired by all who knew her.

Miss Lillian Hopkins, whose girlhood was spent in Menlo Park, was united in marriage last Saturday to Edward Pond. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Moreland at the home of the bride's mother on Jackson street, San Francisco. The only attendant was her sister, Mrs. William S. Parrott. E. W. Hopkins gave his grand niece in marriage. The pretty bride is known to a large circle of friends in Menlo Park.

The committees having in charge the big St. Patrick's entertainment on the evening of March 16 are planning a novel performance for that occasion. From present indications it is to be the cleverest ever presented to a Menlo Park audience.

Mrs. J. Winslow, a prominent young lady of San Jose, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz.

Stanford resident alumnae and others gathered at the campus Women's Clubhouse last Wednesday for the regular Wednesday tea. Hostesses were Mesdames Charles A. Shurtleff, Frank Hall, R. R. Agnew, Joseph Lorber, Edwin Tucker, James Sharp and Harry Douglas.

RUNNYMEDE NOTES

The capacity of the new auditorium was taxed to its limit last Saturday evening when the Darktown Bubble Minstrels presented their program for the Woman's Club, who plan to buy chairs to be used in the new building. The program was splendid and was under the management of Mrs. J. Cairns, Mrs. Chas. Cairns, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Albertson and Frank Crowther. The characters which were all Runnymede people were Carol De Mant, Frank Crowther, Helen Crowther, Pauline Brooke, Laura Van Wie, Emily Gravestock, F. L. Cates, Mrs. John Bruger, F. Hand, A. Dollings, Wm. Bancroft and Gerald Hironymous.

The orchestra from the Christian Church Sunday School added much to the program and dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment. Altogther it was a great success.

The Runnymede Berry Growers Association met for their annual meeting Friday evening and elected officers for the coming year, electing N. Jacobson, president; W. H. Parkin, vice-president; Fred Workman, secretary-treasurer. The executive committee elected were: G. B. Mulford, John Stangl, Frank West, O. P. Herbig and Fred Workman.

The Horticultural commission of San Mateo County urges spraying for bush berries to commence as the buds are swelling with a solution of lime and sulphur 1 part to 9 parts of water.

Poultry growers of Runnymede will meet Tuesday evening, Feb 6, in the new Ravenswood school auditorium. J. H. Newlin of the University of California is to speak. The meeting will be called at 7:30.

Next Wednesday afternoon the Woman's Club will meet for their regular meeting and it is urged that every member of the organization be present as the business session has urgent matters for discussion. The P. T. A. will be guest of the club. Mrs. B. Crosby has charge of the program for the day, tre topic being "What California has done for Education."

Miss Patsy Crighton who has been on the sick list is better again.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubbe, Sr., have returned from Sacramento, where they spent a few days visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Brooke and family were guests with relatives in San Francisco Sunday.

Mrs. Nichols and daughter, Ina, former residents of the colony were week end guests at the Romes home.

Mrs. C. N. Strawn's sister, Mrs. Cuthbertson and the latter's two daughters, Martha and Annabel, returned from Oakland with Mrs. Straun Friday, reaining until Sunday, when they returned with Mr. Cuthbertson who had come down for the day.

Archie Halliday was a week-end visitor at the Cameron home.

Gerald Hironymous and family have removed from the corner of Runnymede and Cooley avenue to the corner of the Bay Road and Sweeney avenue.

Mrs. Amos Davis was home from Benicia the last of the week.

Miss Esther Carter of Menlo Park was a week-end visitor with Pauline Brooke the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Maynard entertained at dinner Sunday complimentory of Mrs. Moody, a sister of the latter. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Self of Palo Alto and Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Wells were the invited guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Christensen of Ceres motored over for a week-end visit at the M. P. Olesen home the past week.

Mrs. A. E. Hansen entertained a few friends informally Tuesday afternoon in honor of the birthday of her baby son, Arnold.

Mrs. Julius Anderson and daughter came down from the city Saturday to spend Sunday with the home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Armstrong of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Opperman of San Mateo and Fred Opperman of Los Gatos were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. P. Barron and Mr. and Mrs. John Burger.

Several of the poultrymen attended the annual meeting of the Poultry Producers Association in San Francisco on Tuesday.

The "Laun-dry-ette" Electric Washer will be shown and demonstrated in the window, corner of Broadway and Washington streets, Brown's Tire Shop by H. F. Cook, who plans to be a permanent resident of Redwood City.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

The officers of the Parent-Teachers Association were delighted with the splendid attendance at the last regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, the wide awake interest shown by the membership is very encouraging. Mrs. J. W. Davis was appointed publicity chairman; Mrs. H. Wade Mahany, chairman of legislation, and Mrs. F. W. Otto, temporary treasurer. Plans are under way for a rousing meeting for this month when we will celebrate Founder's day. At the same time the Fathers' Association will merger with the Parent-Teachers' Association. This meeting will be held in the evening so that every one can attend. Prizes will be given to pupils for the best essays on the lives of Lincoln and Washington.

H. E. Higgins, now in the life insurance business, but who was until recently the popular ticket clerk for the S. P. Company at the county seat came up to San Carlos last Monday to try and convince our young and middle aged married men of the great importance of life insurance for the protection of their families, and make themselves worthy of remembrance after they have passed to their reward in the great beyond.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Whitman, who recently sold their bungalow in Burlingame and moved into San Carlos apartments here, have leased the Rufus O. Cook bungalow on Magnolia avenue, and have arranged to remain in San Carlos indefinitely, or until they decide upon the purchase of a new home here or at some other location in the warm belt south of Belmont.

Mr. D. E. Schooley's brother, who has been visiting with him and other relatives in the bay cities for the past six months, started on his return trip to his home in Eastern Canada on the Coast Line Limited last Saturday evening. Mr. Schooley expects to make the journey by easy stages, via Los Angeles and New Orleans, stopping over at all the large cities and interesting places enroute. He will also visit in Florida and Alabama and in the blue grass state before making the last lap on his homeward journey. Mr. Schooley came the northern route on his way to California, and hence, will have practically encircled the U. S. A. when he arrives at his home in Canada. Mr. Schooley enjoyed his visit to the Goldan State very much, and will probably return here next fall spend part of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wheeler, who have been making their home at the Hurlburt apartments for the past year, have moved to 5535 E. 17th street, Oakland.

Three of our bright children, who passed the examination and graduated from our grammer school at Christmas time, and who have taken up their studies and been inlated into the mysteries of the Sequoia High, are being congratulated by their fellow students upon their success in passing this important mile stone in their ever advancing and promising careers. They were the Misss Elsie Gee and Edith Quinn, and Fred T. Odgers, Jr., was the lucky boy who had the good fortune to keep pace with and take the nert step with these two bright and winsome young ladies. At the graduating exercises last Friday night, these three young people and their school associates, with the assistance of their teacher, Miss Eleanor Ebert, and Mrs. Mary Quinn, as musician, programed a very interesting and delightful entertainment for the pleasure of their parents and friends. Following the graduation exercises, the graduates and their friends were treated to a very interesting and instructive address by Prof. A. E. Monteith, the superintendent of schools at Redwood City. If these young people religiously follow all the good advice given them by this prominent and successful educator in later years we may learn of some Abraham Lincoln's and Susan B. Anthonys who graduated from the San Carlos school.

Now that we have exeperienced a big and destructive fire, the people of San Carlos are beginning to talk more earnestly about the great need of organizing a volunteer fire department. We are blessed with so much good material, in the way of young atletes, that it may be a little hard to decide upon whom we may select as fire chief. However, we beleive it would be well to let A. J. Merta, the butcher and E. J. Wheeler draw straws for the job, as they appear to be the most talked of eligibles for the important position.

Walter H. Nixon, superintendent of the C. C. Morse trial gardens here, returned last Wednesday morning from a business trip to Los Angeles, where he had gone to look after business in the interests of the Morse people.

Miss Gladys Urch, who moved here with her parents from Valejo several months ago, and who has been employed at the Leslie Salt Works, has decided to continue her high school studies, which she had left off on leaving Vallejo. Miss Urch entered Sequoia High at Redwood City last Monday, along with the three new initiates from the San Carlos grammar school. Thus San Carlos adds four more to the overcrowded high school at Redwood City.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

We wish to thank our many customers in Redwood City and surrounding towns for their fine co-operation and their appreciation of values during our great re-building sale, which has contributed to making this sale the greatest in our history, and strengthened that confident feeling that has always existed between our customers and ourselves.

We wish to announce that construction on our new building is about to start and when completed will just double our present floor space and make one of the finest stores in Palo Alto.
